Dickson's Point: Think Data!

- Use the Data You Already Have: Grades, Clicks
- Online Courses Automatically Generate Data
- Visual Display of Data To Stimulate Discussion
- Current Data Have More Impact Than Year Old Data
- Different Data Analyses for Different Audiences
- Get New Data Quickly With Well-Designed Surveys
- Think of Students with Names, Not Course Means
- Be Alert for Bimodal Distributions
